

Abstract

A system and method that securely eliminates traces of activity, scans for monitoring applications, clears user activities, and otherwise provides security to a remote computer. The system and method provides the functionality through a network 5 browser without the need to install software on the remote computer.

